

The Center for Medical Humanities & Ethics presents
The 2009 Ewing Halsell Distinguished Lecture

Music & Medicine: GEORGE GERSHWIN

A Presentation with Piano by Richard Kogan, MD

Tuesday, September 15
Reception 5 – 6 p.m.
Presentation 6 – 8 p.m.

UT Health Science Center Auditorium
7703 Floyd Curl Drive
www.texashumanities.org

This event is free and open to the public.

Richard Kogan, MD, has gained renown for his lecture/recitals that explore the role of music in healing and the influence of psychological factors on the creative output of composers such as Mozart, Beethoven, Schumann, Tchaikovsky, George Gershwin and Leonard Bernstein. Dr. Kogan has won the Concert Artists Guild Award and the Chopin Competition of the Kosciuszko Foundation and received the 2005 Artsgenesis Creative Achievement Award.

Dr. Kogan is a graduate of the Juilliard School of Music, Harvard College and Harvard Medical School. He completed a psychiatry residency and an academic fellowship at NYU. He has a private practice of psychiatry in New York City and is affiliated with Weill Cornell Medical College as Co-Director of its Human Sexuality Program. He is also Co-Chairman of the recently established Weill Cornell Music/Medicine Initiative.

