

CSL Grants for Teen Pregnancy Prevention

The Center for Medical Humanities & Ethics is pleased to announce a request for applications (RFA) for funding of midi-grants in Community Service Learning in Teen Pregnancy Prevention.

WHO may apply

UTHSCSA student(s) with a faculty mentor

HOW to apply

www.texashumanities.org/csrfunding

WHEN to apply: Deadline January 31, 2012

WHAT is required:

- A completed electronic CSL Funding application
- A community venue (clinic, community center, church or other place where teens and families may be receptive to health-related services)
- Evidence that the proposed project meets a community expressed need
- Commitment to minimum of 40 hours of community service (including planning, preparation, mentorship and reflection)
- Monitoring and evaluation strategies that will allow outcomes reporting of the impact of your service-learning intervention
- A poster presentation at the Annual Community Service Learning Conference

The Center will award a limited number of $2000-$5000 midi-grants in 2012-13 to specifically strengthen community service learning in 4 areas of identified need, including teen pregnancy prevention. We hope that through the mentorship afforded by these opportunities, we will inspire a greater number of health professionals to address the high rates of teen pregnancy.

Questions? Contact csl@uthscsa.edu

